

Abstract

The invention relates to a closing lid or closure cover having a lid element (1) and an insert element (2). The insert element (2) can comprise a hard component having a center region. The center region acts upon an elastic counter-region of the lid element (1) such that the lid element (1) and the insert element (2) can be locked together in a mounted state.